

THE NATIONAL ONLINE RESOURCE CENTER SUPPORTING YOUR SUCCESS RELAUNCHED IN APRIL 2018!

The primary goal of the National Resource Center on Nutrition and Aging (NRCNA) is to develop future-readiness within the nutrition and aging services field. With the recent relaunch of the NRCNA website, the resource is now even more valuable than ever before.

Serving the national aging network – including local nutrition programs, national aging associations and state and regional agencies involved with aging – the NRCNA has supported the effective implementation of the nutrition portions of the Older Americans Act (OAA) since 2011.

LEARN, STRENGTHEN AND GROW YOUR PROGRAM WITH THE NRCNA

Future-readiness involves operational changes, modernization, capacity building and performance measurement that must occur at the program level today to meet tomorrow's needs. The NRCNA aims to modernize the provision of senior nutrition services and enhance the skills, knowledge, business acumen and sustainability of senior nutrition network programs by providing tools and resources that promote program excellence, service quality and models for social entrepreneurship.

The NRCNA is a source for consistent access to upcoming live and online trainings, as well as new and late-breaking research, reports, tools, evidence-based practices and business-related models prepared by experts and practitioners from across the country – as well as information sharing at the national, state and community levels – getting programs ready for the future.

READY RESOURCES AT YOUR FINGER TIPS

The mobile-friendly NRCNA website offers a range of resources that cover promising practices and emerging trends in:

- Malnutrition, General Nutrition, Food and Health
- Social Determinants of Health
- Business Acumen / Healthcare Integration
- Parallel Systems of Health and Nutrition
- Nutrition Education Materials
- Provider Operations, Program Planning, Evaluation and Operations Tools
